Presentation

Adrien has broad experience in complex industrial projects, representing both sponsors and governments, with a focus on the natural resources and infrastructure sectors. He is particularly active in West and Central Africa where he regularly advises clients on OHADA law, the common set of laws to 17 francophone African countries, and sector-specific corporate, commercial and regulatory aspects.

Prior to joining the practice, Adrien worked for more than two years in Paris and Kuala Lumpur, acted as legal counsel for Eramet within a team dedicated to the development of a world-class mining project in Indonesia and occupied the position of analyst within the project finance department of CIC, where he has been involved in a number of power and infrastructure financings.
